

Professional Training on Occupational Health and Safety in Construction Sector

Program Date: 06-08 December 2025

Venue: CERM, BUET

Application Deadline: 25 November 2025

About The Training

The Professional Training on Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) is organized by the Centre for Environmental and Resource Management (CERM), BUET to enhance awareness and capacity among professionals on workplace safety and labor management practices. The course focuses on identifying workplace hazards, implementing preventive measures, and promoting safe and healthy working environments. Through interactive sessions, case studies, and practical demonstrations, participants will gain hands-on knowledge and skills essential for ensuring compliance with OHS standards and fostering a culture of safety within their organizations.

Objectives

The key objectives of the training are to:

- ✓ Enhance participants' understanding of Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) principles, policies, and legal frameworks
- ✓ Build capacity to identify, assess, and mitigate workplace hazards effectively
- ✓ Strengthen participants' ability to implement and monitor OHS and Labor Management Plan (LMP) practices in field operations
- ✓ Equip participants with practical tools and techniques for ensuring safe and healthy working environments

Course Outline

The course spans three days. It is specifically designed for professionals with a focus on Construction Sector. The course offers a comprehensive learning experience through expert-led sessions and practical group exercises.
